FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HCG Unveils Online Essbase Training Catalog and Continues to Deliver Economical Oracle® Hyperion Essbase Training Solutions.

Minneapolis, MN – December 1, 2008 HCG, an Oracle Certified Partner and leading full-service Oracle Business Intelligence provider specializing in Hyperion consulting, training and software, announces the launch of their e-shopping cart, Business Intelligence Warehouse. Answering to the market demands, HCG is focusing efforts on increasing the ease of registering and paying for business intelligence training and products while also expanding their efforts to deliver new and innovative learning tools (learn more by going to www.harbinger-group.com/education_services).

This much anticipated shopping cart can be found at www.harbinger-group.com/catalog and allows customers fast and easy access to their full Oracle Hyperion training curriculum. The cart provides easy navigation and allows consumers quick access to product descriptions, course delivery options, pricing, and schedules. To coincide with the opening of the online store, HCG is also offering great discounts on their live virtual Essbase training classes and their training video, Dynamic Essbase Reporting. Customers will receive discounts of 25% or more when registering for December training through the Business Intelligence Warehouse.

In response to the economy and client demand for economic training solutions, HCG is increasing its development focus on its live virtual training and training video series with an aggressive production schedule throughout 2009. Their offering includes FREE Essbase Webinars, inexpensive training videos, and an instructor-led web training series. “While we have always received great evaluations on our training, we are very excited that people highly rate our Essbase webinars and responded very well during the beta testing for our new Dynamic Essbase Reporting video,” said AnneMarie Klimek, Vice President and General Manager. “We know we are moving in the right direction with our rapid development plan for 2009. HCG considers it important to offer our clients the opportunity to provide necessary job-related training to their employees in a way that fits into their schedule and budget.” HCG University’s live virtual training is proven to save time, money and resources, while providing employees with skills crucial to the advancement of their careers and companies.
